Dear Lee,

I am disappointed in the first Mike to come out under my name. There has been much criticism, and ultimately the responsibility falls on my head. Now the issue was good, and I expect things to be just as good from now on, even better---but there were things that could have been stated more tastefully or eliminated. Since this is, as I said, my responsibility and I must take the blame as well as the praise, I feel it only fair to ask that in the future I read the articles that are to be printed or be shown a proof, whichever be more convenient for you.

If you at any time need help in obtaining articles or editing please feel free to call upon me. After all if I'm to do anything as PR Director I think I should know what's going on and what are the problems.

I hope we can get together for drinks soon to discuss this.

Keep up the good work and good work.
